1 IT is beyond reason that more radioactives should be dumped at Hanford when the cleanup of existing is totally inadaquate. Save The Columbia River, its people and resources !!

1 Hanford is unquestionably the most Toxic waste site in the nation. It has for half a century been a "sacrifice" area. To introduce an additional 70,000 truck-loads @ this time is unconscientable as there is absolutely NO ADEQUATE STORAGE AVAILABLE thus assuring leakages into the Columbia — which is used to irrigate

2 food crops. Get a grip. Thousands of us are FED UP with being downwinders!

1 I am against the dumping of any further nuclear waste at Hanford site in Wash. State. Hanford is already the most contaminated site in the country. I am greatly concerned about the risk of contamination of the Columbia River

2 nearby and also the risks of 70,000 truckloads of radioactive waste going through our state. The gov.

3 has not done enough clean up or enough to insure the safety of these trucks going through our state.

1 I am greatly disturbed to learn of USDOE's plans to ship more radioactive waste to Hanford. The government has not honored it's commitment to clean up what is already there + now you want to send more!
Hanford is the nation's most contaminated site!
As a citizen of the NW, I adamantly oppose future threats to our safety + well-being.
2 Please stop contaminating our region!

1 Why are we in Washington State taking other states' nuclear waste? We are already the nation's most contaminated waste site – shipping 70,000 truckloads of radioactive and chemical waste isn't going to help – Catherine Marley

1 During Iraqi Freedom a friend of mine & myself were near Spangle WA I noticed to the southeast towards Idaho a large very large amt. of red sky. Peculiar enough earlier in the morning a man said that depleted nuclear (part missing) would still cause poison many many miles from the blast in the form of red sky. So we must be careful of nuculear waste or whatever. This red sky could of come from Korea or Iraq
